Updated information to Guardians about Covid-19

After the summer, our pre-schools and schools are now starting in earnest and we want to inform new and old guardians about how the Corona virus affects us. We at Dibber protect our most important values- the children and students in our activities. It is out of care of them and everyone else who stays in our operations and as well as risk groups that we continue to work carefully to prevent the spread of infection. Thank you for your understanding and participation!

We follow the Swedish Public Health Agency's recommendations as well other Instructions and advice Issued by the authorities. This also applies to food handling and the practice of sport.

We anticipate that the rest of 2020 will also mean that we will keep pre-schools and primary schools open, but that further measures to reduce the spread of infection will be required. You will always find updated information on our website, where there is also special information about, among other things, distance education and links to government information. In our blog we have also collected good tips on fun and educational home activities.

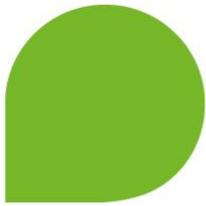

As for children and young people in our activities

Regarding to reduce the risk of spreading the Infection, children, students and staff should be aware of the symptoms that may occur with covid-19. This applies to both mild symptoms such as sore throat, coryza, nausea and headache, but also other symptoms such as muscle and joint pain, fever, cough and difficulty breathing.

Students who are healthy must, with the exceptions listed below regarding registration of absence, go to school and children who are healthy can go to preschool. We want to emphasize that compulsory schooling still applies, and it is important not to miss teaching unnecessarily.

If a child or student falls ill during the school day, the child/student must go home as soon as possible. The staff then contact the guardians for collection. When it comes to students the staff will agree with the guardian whether the student can go home alone or should wait In an individual room until the guardians arrives.

Children, student and staff, like everyone else in society, should stay home if you feel sick and you should be symptom-free for at least two days. Children and students can return to school even if they have a persistent dry cough when 7 days have passed since they became ill and they have been otherwise symptom-free for at least two days.

Children and students who have siblings or other family members who are ill can go to preschool and school as usual. In households where someone is ill, it is extra important to pay attention to the symptoms of others in the household. Guardians who are ill must not leave or pick up children in preschool or school.

In the case of allergic problems, the following applies: If you recognize your allergy symptoms, take your medicine and it gets better, you can stay in our business. If you do not get better, you must stay at home.

If necessary contact Vårdguiden (Care guide) on telephone number 1177. For general questions about Corona, you can call 113 13. Information about symptoms and other valuable information from 1177 can be found HÄR. Collected information from the Swedish Public Health Agency can be found HÄR.

Based on the changed situation with general spread of Infection with Covid-19, we will no longer have as a routine to inform about individual established cases that occur, but only on the advice of Infection control physicians. Decisions on closure in such a situation are made on the advice of Infection control physicians.

We do everything we can to be able to be open at our preschools in the same way as usual. We help each other between our preschools and, as usual, take in substitutes when needed, if this measure is not enough, we may need to limit opening hours and appeal that you, who have the opportunity, keep your child at home. This is due to an increasing shortage of staff. Thank you for your understanding,

Parent-active introduction and absence from preschool

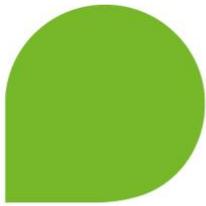

When a new child starts with us, it is a prerequisite that the child's guardian is initially present together with the child in preschool. Preschool is an activity where we are close to the children, who are small and in need of care and closeness. This means that we want each guardian during the introduction to follow precautionary measures based on the Public Health Agency's guideline.

It is important that you stay at home if you or your child shows any possible symptoms of covid-19. Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. Keep as far as possible an arm's length to distance others both indoors and outdoors. Good to know is that preschool will be outdoors to a greater extent than usual to minimize infection.

Preschool is a voluntary form of activity, but we always ask you to inform the school management according to normal routines if you choose to keep your child at home.

Registration of absence in primary school

It is important that you as a guardian report absence according to the existing routines. In this case, you must also contact the school as soon as possible for a dialogue about the student's schooling so that the head of school becomes aware of the reason for the absence. If you have an infectionsensitive child and are wondering whether the child should go to school or pre-school , you should contact your treating doctor for assessment.

Other information

We avoid children and students in our activities staying in places and at events outside our own premises where the public health authority's recommendation are not followed. This may mean that previously planned activities are canceled. On the other hand, various outdoor activities are often good from an Infection control point of view and are encouraged.

We have severely limited business trips and physical meetings outside regular workplaces as well as external visits. The same rules that you must be healthy to stay in our business apply to our employees.

We follow developments closely and are in ongoing dialogue with the relevant authorities, especially the Public Health Agency and the municipalities where we have our activities, In order to best protect children, students and employees. We inform our units and principals on an ongoing basis and ask them to post information about the spread of infection. We also emphasize measures for good hygiene and other measures to reduce risks.
